

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XIX.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1891.

NO. 56

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—E. Hale and Tom Beckner, brothers-in-law, and heretofore good friends, got drunk Friday evening in the Rough Creek neighborhood and had a fight, which resulted in the death of Beckner. Beckner drew his pistol and shot Hale in the arm, who wrenched it from him and shot Beckner once in the thigh and once in the back, the ball passing through his body.

—John Bull was let out of jail, Friday, where he had been serving out a pistol case. While in jail he witnessed a fight between two of the prisoners in which one of them had to be choked off of another's nose. He had a grudge against old man Anderson Wyatt and as soon as he got to his home at East Bernstadt he raised a row with Wyatt, and proceeded to do the nose act with him. He bit off the end of Mr. Wyatt's nose, set it out and put his foot on it. Bull is 18 years old and Wyatt about 60. Bull is in jail.

—Mrs. Sallie Leavell, of Bryansville, is visiting here. Prof. Charles R. Brock was home Sunday from Williamsburg, and is delighted with his new surroundings. Mr. Joe Adams, formerly of your town, has resigned as agent at Lily, and has been given a better position at Cumberland Gap. He was here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Will Miller, a newly married couple from Barbourville, were visiting Mrs. Sue Faris this week. Rev. Struve, the new Methodist pastor appointed by the recent conference, preached his first sermon here Sunday. J. T. Brown and son, Fred, went to Louisville a few days ago. Marriage license issued last week to the following parties: M. V. Bidener and Nancy Bingham, Wm. Phelps and Julia Goodin, J. R. Farman and Mariak Hammeck, James Allen and Martha Allen, Mozir Lewis and Sallie A. Phillips, J. E. Barrett and Mary E. Hartsock, William Jones and Miss Maggie Storms.

Bobbit's Oratorical Bout.

At Mt. Vernon, in a murder case in which the prosecution was represented by Commonwealth's Attorney Herndon, Col. W. D. Bradley, G. W. McClure and R. C. Warren, Hon. Fontaine F. Bobbitt, who followed Mr. Warren, began his speech as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY.—Thunders from the storm of persecution that shook the castellated peaks of old Rockcastle, and awoke the wild, sleeping echoes of her forests, and even dislodged the repose of the wild-cats in their gloomy dens upon the lofty summit of Wild Cat Mountain, having subsided, you will now listen to the soft, mild, gentle zephyrs of truth! The voice of persecution is always loud and boisterous, the voice of truth gentle, mild and persuasive. Look what an invincible quartette is prosecuting this poor, friendless devil. All four of them able generals. General Sagacity, who wins by shrewdness, General Fugacity, and General Pugnacity, and General Mendacity, who lies his way through. Gentlemen, there are your titles, divide them to suit yourselves, and if you can't agree about the divide draw straws for them.

—The tonian line steamer Arizona, which left New York September 5 for Liverpool, collided in a dense fog off Sandy Hook September 6, with an unknown sailing vessel. Nothing but wreckage could be found after the crash, and the indications are the craft went down with all on board.

—The extra session of the Tennessee legislature expires by limitation next Saturday. No disposition of the convict lease question has been made, but a bill creating a penitentiary commission and providing for the building of a new State prison has been recommended for passage in both houses, but it is thought that the whole matter will go on to the next legislature.

The Richmond Register is kind enough to say: "We are glad to know that Brother Walton has declined the invitation to go to Knoxville. He is in the right place and his influence for good in the community where he lives has been marked from the time he first started the Interior Journal. His loss to the paper and to the county of Lincoln would be irreparable."

The Hawkinsville Dispatch says: "Many of the fools think they can beat the lawyer in expounding the law; one-half think they can beat the doctor in healing the sick; two-thirds of them think they can beat the minister preaching the gospel, and all of them know they can beat the editor running a newspaper."

The greatest known depth of the ocean in the Pacific is near the LaRone Islands, where soundings were made to a depth in excess of five miles.

P. D. Armour is the largest individual commercial operator in the world. His transactions last year reached the enormous aggregate of $163,000,000.

—The mortgage indebtedness of Kansas is reported by the census office at about $250,000,000.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. A. S. Moffatt is assisting in a revival meeting at Paint Lick.

—Eld. W. C. Tharp will assist Eld. W. L. Williams in a meeting at Hustonville, beginning the 1st Sunday in November.

—Rev. J. W. Arney, of the Methodist church, is undergoing church trial for entering his horses in races at Savannah, Mich.

—The State evangelist has not yet arrived, but Rev. Ben Helm is conducting the Presbyterian meeting and will do so until he does.

—Rev. B. F. Clay lectured at McCormacks, last night, on "Mormonism as he saw it at Salt Lake City," and will lecture to-night at Turnersville.

—The Ladies of the Crab Orchard Christian church have just raised a donation with which they propose to purchase Rev. J. G. Livingston an elegant baptismal suit.

—The Rev. Hayden is determined to try them all. The Kentucky Conference which had but recently received him from the Christian church, dropped him at his request to go to the Presbyterians.

—The report to the Conference of the M. E. Church, South, shows a membership of 1,200,000, and their contributions to all purposes amounted to $2,837,240.59, or less than 5 cents a week for each communicant.

—The second ecumenical Conference of the Methodist Church will be held in Washington, commencing the 7th, and continuing two weeks. The 45,000,000 Methodists in the world will be represented by 500 delegates.

—The Central German Methodist Conference, including Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and parts of Illinois and Michigan, in session at Covington, decided by a vote of 126 to 1 that women should not be admitted as delegates.

—Our Methodist friends were much pleased with the two sermons of their new pastor, Rev. W. E. Arnold Sunday, and are confident they will be pleased with him. He was on the Danville circuit last year to assist Rev. Pierce, who was frequently too ill to preach. His family, consisting of wife and two children, will move here as soon as practical.

—The Lexington Transcript says: "The soldier preacher, who never touched liquor, tobacco, cards, coffee, and never uttered an oath, Col. Richard M. Tiano, now of Texas, has been conducting a revival meeting for a week at the Chestnut Street Mission. About 25 have confessed their faith and the house is crowded every night with persons who are strongly concerned for their soul's salvation."

—The average increase of the population in the States where the Southern Presbyterian church works has been 20 per cent. In the decade, while that church has made 42 per cent. growth. The growth of the Northern Presbyterian church has been 33 per cent, while the population within its bounds has grown 25 or 26 per cent. Religion is hardly dying out as far these denominations are concerned.

—Rev. Ben Helm furnishes this interesting and gratifying item: Total contributions of the Southern Presbyterian church for all religious objects in the year 1890-91, are $1,817,235; total communications, 174,065; contributed per member, $10.43; total number of churches, 2,453; ministers, 1,186; Kentucky's growth in population in 10 years, 12 per cent; Kentucky Southern Presbyterian church growth, 52 per cent.

—The plan suggested by Rev. Ben Helm for the Stanford and Danville Presbyterian churches to pay the salary of a missionary in China, has worked very satisfactorily, nearly of the whole amount being raised either in cash or by subscription. Rev. R. A. Haben, the missionary left Saturday morning, taking with him the good wishes and prayers of the whole church, which in addition to his salary made him a present of twenty odd dollars.

—The Sanctificationists have been holding a meeting in Jessamine, and as usual acted like crazy people. A dispatch says one of them burned up his barn of tobacco at once instead of by pipefuls. Another smothered his bees because the devil made them work on Sunday, and another shot a fine registered bull because he gave evidence of brute instinct on Sunday after being solemnly reprimanded. All this in enlightened Kentucky and in the 19th century!

—The Usual Way.—"Henry asked me to be his wife last night," she told her chum.

"Oh, I'm so delighted, Gertrude. And how did it happen?"

"Well, he asked me and I said 'yes,' and that he just stood up and folded his arms."

"What! he was no more interested than that?"

"Oh, but you see I was in them when he folded them,"—Philadelphia Times.

—An Anti-Sub Treasury convention is to meet at St. Louis to-day and is expected to be largely attended by Alliance men.

The Famous Orphan Brigade.

The brigade was composed of the 2nd, 10th, 5th and 9th infantry, and the cavalry was organized in November, 1861. Brig. Gen. John C. Breckinridge being its first commander. He was succeeded, on his promotion to the rank of major general, by Gen. Roger W. Hanson, who was killed at Murfreesboro January 4, 1863. Gen. Ben Hardin Helm was appointed to succeed him January 20, 1863. He was killed September 20, 1863, at Chickamauga. Col. Joseph H. Lewis took command on the field and was promoted to the rank of brigadier general September 30, 1863, retaining his position till the close of the war.

The members of the brigade were very greatly attached to Gen. Hanson, and their sorrow at his death was very great. His successor, Gen. Helm, at once firmly established himself in their esteem in every respect, and when he followed the lamented Hanson they felt bereaved indeed. It was then they took the name that has distinguished them till now.

The first serious fighting of the brigade was done at Shiloh, where its loss was very heavy, and where it distinguished itself in such a manner as to call forth the encomiums of the commanding general and the officers of the government. The brigade joined in the battle at Corinth and the defense of Vicksburg. It suffered desperately at the battle of Murfreesboro, and was almost decimated at Chickamauga. It did some glorious fighting at Mission Ridge and Jonesboro, Ga.

In his stirring welcome address to the survivors at Ovensboro last week, Congressman W. T. Ellis, said:

When you marched out of your camps at Dalton on May 7, 1861, you had in your ranks 1,110 men with muskets in their hands.

When you halted in front of Atlanta 100 days later you had only 240; 900 of your comrades did not answer at the roll call.

Where were they? Had they deserted? No. Had they skulked to places of safety in the rear? No. Had they been captured by the enemy? No.

They were dead on bloody fields, or suffering in hospitals from honorable wounds received in the fore front of the battle.

The number of wounds inflicted in your brigade during the campaign, including the killed, was 2,000. Not 40 of your number had escaped wounds; many of them had been wounded a half dozen times.

That was the closing chapter, which you as Confederate soldiers added to the military annals of Kentucky, a chapter which will not fade out while the State keeps a record of its heroes.

A novel and extensive entertainment for the benefit of the charitable institutions of Lexington, will be held in that city Sep. 23 and 24. The programme will consist in part of a Carnival of Nations and a Dickens and other special features by the ladies at floral hall. On the mile track, which will be enclosed for the purpose, such sport as a tournament of knights. An English fox chase to be presided over by Gen. Wade Hampton. Deer chases, wolf hunts, bicycle tournament, a National dog show, and many other attractions, chiefly of which will be Prof. Randall's air ship. Excursion rates on all railroads. For further information apply to Gen. W. H. Gentry, president, or Geo. A. Bain, secretary.

GARRARD COUNTY.—Hon. R. H. Tomlinson was appointed county attorney, Monday, by Judge Robinson. Garrard College opened on Tuesday, with 101 pupils, 18 in the boarding department. Canon L. Roberts, charged with the killing of Joel Parks, executed the $5,000 bond Tuesday. Howard J. Marrs left the early part of the week for Louisville and matriculated in the school of pharmacy. Sanders & Hill have bought a load of good butcher cattle at 24 to 26. Record.

ONE FARE FOR ROUND TRIP.—On September 22 tickets at the rate of one fare will be sold from all points in territory south of the Ohio river and west of Indiana to all points in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan on the line of or reached via the C. H. & D. or its connections. The tickets will be good 30 days from date of sale. Ask your local agent for tickets via that road, or address E. O. McCormick, G. P. & T. A., Cincinnati, O.

"If you think you're going to collect any money from me," said Ardup, doggedly, as he handed back the bill, "you're away off. You can't draw blood from a turnip."

"Maybe not," replied the man with the bill, peeling off his coat, "but I'm going to see if I can't pound a little out of a dead beat."

Mr. Oldboy—My dear, that new cook of ours is homely enough to crack the kitchen plastering.

Mrs. Oldboy (with much decision)—I'll attend to keeping the plastering in repair, my dear. You won't have to look after it. She's going to stay.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Miss Lena Williams was married Friday evening at the residence of her father, Will R. Williams, to Mr. Homer Oldson, manager of the Paris Water Works. The secret was divulged but a few hours before the wedding and was a pleasant surprise to all Miss Lena's friends, except a favored few who were in her confidence. Mr. Oldson has drawn a prize of which he can proudly boast.

—It is refreshing to read that grand-pap's grand-son, after, with Uncle Jerry's aid, giving the county bonafide crops in spots—finds time to put in an afternoon rail shooting on Maurice river meadows. It is especially gratifying to learn that he made the biggest bag, but, how many misses did he score and what brand of wads did he use? Generalities are not gratifying in mention of such momentous matters.

—Messrs. John Beiden and Will Campbell, of Lebanon, came up Sunday on a brief visit to kinfolk. John Wash, lately a merchant at this place, is here with his brothers, I. F. and Wallace Steele. Mr. P. W. Napier, who has operated a branch of his vast mercantile business here for a year or so has removed the remnants of his stock to Russellville, and Walter C. Greening will open a stock of groceries and hardware at the stand just vacated. Several ventures in Mr. G.'s proposed line have expired here after a brief struggle, but Waller intends demonstrating that there's money in it.

—But one farmer has begun cutting corn in this end, so far as seen or heard from. The blades of corn are in nearly all fields as green as a farmer's delights in seeing them in July and August, and but few sheaves, except on low lands have assumed the yellow cast which attends maturity of ear. Frost is the great dread now and "When will it frost?" is as much the stereotyped greeting of farmers now as "When will it rain?" was last May. The observing old timers are serene. They say the cockle-bur has yet to defer its maturity till frost and many of them are found in their infancy.

—It is not surprising that daily papers that are familiar with the editorial page of the Interior Journal should be casting about for means to ingratiate, but the Knoxville man either didn't work out Ned John's Biblical problem correctly, or vastly underestimates a blue-grass constituency's appreciation of a good thing, if he thought an offer such as reported would tempt a tide-water Virginian to the wilds of East Tennessee, after nearly two decades acclimation to the present Eden spot of the world. Add another 100 to your offer, Mr. Tennessee man, and your proposition may be entertained.

—Mrs. Henry Gannitz is visiting her sister, Mrs. Culbertson, at Covington. Wallace Steele left Sunday for Knoxville, where he has large real estate interests. Miss Mollie Batcher, of Crab Orchard, has charge of the colored school here. Dr. Brown is in the dumps. His favorite dog, Jim Buck, a most accomplished youngster, disappeared Saturday most mysteriously. Jim was at home from school during holidays, having a splendid time, and as his books balance to a cent, no solution but abduction suggests itself. Jim is a full blood water spaniel, whose prompt recovery is greatly desired by all his acquaintances and any information leading to discovery of his whereabouts will be most gratefully acknowledged.

—As rather more sown than for many years past has been discovered in many crops of wheat, it is not amiss to warn farmers that carelessness in sowing smutty wheat is an expensive economy as the fungus is thereby multiplied vastly in the growing crop. Sulphate of copper—bluestone—is proved one of the cheapest, efficient fungicides and one pound dissolved in a barrel of water is found sufficient for eight bushels of wheat. As the crystals are slow to dissolve, we give a suggestion such as to facilitate of a solution. Instead of pouring water on the copper, pound it to a moderately fine powder and suspend it from top of vessel, but partially submerged. Enclosed in a fabric similar to cheese-cloth will insure prompt action of the water.

THE KIND OF GOVERNOR WE HAVE.—Mr. J. M. Reid sends us the following: When John Young Brown was a member of Congress some years ago, in answer to a speech of B. F. Butler slandering and abusing the South and its people, he bore so heavy on the old beast by showing him up in his true colors, that Blaine, speaker at the time, called him to order, whereupon the House, being largely republican, immediately passed a resolution censuring him for the way he had handled "Old Cock Eye." Thereupon the proud Kentuckian arose from his seat and after congratulating the rads for their conduct on the occasion, told them that it would be the ambition of his life to wear their censure as a crown of fidelity to his people and a badge of honor to himself.

—The post-office of Bright, Casey county, has been discontinued.

W. P. WALTON.

It is hope that the convention will sit down on Delegate Miller's proposition to appoint a committee of three members of the body to index and put in book form the enrolled new constitution and with it the constitution of the United States, the compact with Virginia, the act of Congress admitting Kentucky into the union, the act calling the constitutional convention, the magna charta and God knows what all. The members of the committee are to get $10 a day each and have no limit put on the time for doing the work, which when finished will be of no practical value, besides costing a small mint of money. There are too many of such publications fit only to take up shelf room. Another proposition of Mr. Miller is to increase the commission to revise the statutes to five and have them chosen from the members of the constitution, on the grounds, perhaps, that no other men are sensible and honest enough to do it. This commission is to cost $13 a day for each member without limit to time. The people voted for the governor to appoint the commission and said that three were enough. They elected a governor at the same time fully competent to select capable men and this effort, like the other silly attempts to curtail his power simply to gratify a petty spite, is unworthy of a great convention, which ought to be composed of statesmen, able to rise above such things.

The New York World says it was the well-defined purpose of the people in electing such an overwhelming majority in the next House to have the worst evils of the McKinley bill corrected, and relieve the public of its heaviest burdens. The republicans in the Senate have had light since the McKinley bill was passed and will not oppose its reasonable revision with the unanimity and fervor with which they advocated its passage. Their majority in the Senate is not large, and upon this question, if properly presented, it is not compact. The republican senators from Northwestern States, together with some others, perhaps, will not be compelled by any caucus to vote against a judiciously framed bill to revise a tariff against which the people of their States are in revolt. A tariff-reform bill can be passed through both houses this year, and the president will not be likely to veto it under the circumstances. But if that is to be done all other questions must be made subsidiary, and the bill itself must be framed with the utmost care, so that it shall give no excuse to partisanship to oppose it blindly in the Senate.

It was claimed by the orators, who were tearing their shirts to get votes for it, that the new constitution positively prohibited the working of convicts outside of the walls of the penitentiary and many ignorant people were led to believe it. The Extension Journal showed how, while pretending not to do so, the clause with reference to this question would admit of the working of convicts outside the walls on nearly any pretext. Mr. Bronston, one of the loudest mouthed advocates of the constitution, which he would have had the people believe was absolutely without flaw or blemish, agrees now that the section was as we claimed it, and has had it changed so as to read that under no circumstance, except in pestilence, shall the convicts be worked outside of prison walls. This will necessitate the building of another penitentiary and the con. con. is still wasting the people's money at the rate of $1,000 a day. Poor old Kentucky!

While the Rev. Walton, of the I. J., is searching the Scriptures, could he pause for a moment and expound who it was or what Job had in his mind in the second verse of the 12th chapter.—Newport Journal. That's an easy one. The old man's eye and mind were fixed on the Kentucky constitutional convention and its infallible members. Will Bro. Blakely lead in prayer that it and they will soon die, even if we should have to struggle along without wisdom thereafter.

The Maysville Commonwealth pays Gov. Brown the following high compliment: "The man who now wears the title of Governor of Kentucky is the Governor, as the ringsters and sportsmen will find out to their sorrow before many moons have waxed and waned. They cannot by flattery or any subtle art, decoy him from the path of duty. The people will find him to be a watchful and courageous guardian of their interests."

The McKinley bill places a heavy duty on type and type metal case the $18,000,000 type trust would not be organizing. The manufacturers are expected to furnish their part of the corruption fund for the large amounts that the duty will put in their pockets.

The Advocate missed the best thing for many a day when it failed to reproduce Ben Ridgely's letter in the Louisville Truth about sleeping old Davuville. Hunt it up and give it to your readers yet, old fellow.

THE CON. CON.

—Mr. Clay has not "seen the railroad in elections." What he has seen is the distrust of his own mediocrity and demagoguery displayed in every step of his public life.—Crey Woodson.

—A mistake in the addition changed the figures somewhat in the vote for the constitution. The final correct figures are for constitution, 212,914; against, 74,476; majority for, 138,438.

—The section of the new constitution authorizing the governor to reappoint all State officers not provided for in the constitution was stricken out, and with it went much of the patronage in small offices the governor would have enjoyed.

—The convention is acting as if its constitution is intended to last only through Governor Brown's administration. That idea may prove not far out of the way if the schemes of some of the delegates prevail.—Covington Commonwealth.

—The constitutional convention will probably end its labors this week. The delegates should go home before they lose every vestige of their reputation. What an illiberal, illogical, narrow-minded collection of creatures they have grown to be.—Louisville Critic.

—A dispatch says the convention has plainly developed spirit of animosity toward the new government. The delegates openly boast that before they are through altering the instrument as it was ratified at the polls, they will strip the new executive's office of every possible power, especially that of appointing State and inferior State officials. They claim and vow openly that the governor has been at heart opposed to the constitution all along, and only favored it because his election depended upon it; that all the appointments he had made have been of men who fought the new constitution, and that he shall be paid in his own coin by the convention.

The Somerset Fair.

The seventh annual meeting of the Pnaski County Fair Association, which ended Friday, was, like all of its predecessors, a grand success. In fact the Somerset fair ranks with the very best of them and grows better as the association grows older. Large crowds attended daily, while on Thursday and Friday probably the largest gatherings ever known in Somerset were there. The display of stock was extraordinarily good and a ring with less than 5 or 6 contestants was the exception rather than the rule. The trotting and running races were all filled, with but one exception, and the sport was fine. Willie Carroll, a Madison county thoroughbred, but in the hands of Scott Farris, of this county, wore the laurels in the running races each day and a prouder man than his veteran trainer could not have been found.

Aside from the pleasures of the fair a delightful hop was given on Thursday evening, which will not soon be forgotten by those who attended. The music, furnished by the Somerset Orchestra, was delightful, and with the bevy of beauties that were there it would have been impossible to have had other than a most charming time.

A number of Lincoln county people were present at both the fair and hop and enjoyed to the fullest extent the hospitality of the cleverest set of people that exist.

NEWSY NOTES.

—An electric swing suggested for the World's Fair will carry 24 people and swing a distance of 900 feet.

—According to Jewish estimates, the number of Jews in New York City is now between 80,000 and 100,000.

—Two persons suicided in one day by jumping into the water above Niagara Falls and being dashed over them.

—Fred Wiley shot and killed his half brother, John Hacker, at Pratt, Kan. A mob pursued Wiley and lynched him.

—Miss Eva Warren, a Greenup county school teacher, committed suicide because she thought she was losing her mind.

—It is said that the wine product of California this year will reach 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 gallons—the largest for years.

—A Wilkesbarre man has sued a minstrel company for $10,000 damages because the comedian made him the butt of a witticism.

—Powell county has a new $6,000 jail built of stone, brick and steel, and the contractors are about through with the $20,000 court-house.

—Dr. H. K. Pinney, of Louisville, has been appointed by Gov. Brown superintendent of the Central Kentucky Insane Asylum, at Anchorage.

—Miss Hannah Danpherty, of Norwich, Conn., was thrown beneath a buggy in a runaway at Williamsburg, Ky., Sunday, and fatally injured.

—The strike of the negro cotton pickers, which a fellow named Humphrey said should take place Saturday in the Southern States, failed to materialize.

—California convicts at St. Quentin have struck twice within a week and failed both times. They want more and better food and less favoritism shown.

—Two men named Ronan, father and son, assaulted and shot Shelby Jett in Madison county. Jett then killed the son, and wounded the father seriously.

—George F. Green, at one time a prominent citizen of Bath county, was convicted of murdering his brother-in-law at Owingsville, and was given a life sentence.

—The Odd Fellows laid the foundation of a $300,000 temple at Cincinnati Saturday.

—The Delaware Iron Works, at New Castle, were gutted by fire. Loss, $300,000, covered by insurance. Eight hundred hands are thrown out of employment.

—It is estimated that the 100,000 or more Americans who visited Europe this season have left more than $60,000,000 of good American money in foreign countries.

—Mrs. Theresa Fair, the divorced wife of James G. Fair, of California, and who received about $5,000,000 from her husband at the time of the divorce, died in San Francisco.

—The Greek ship Thessalia and the Italian vessel Taormina collided off Cape Conna Thursbury, Taormina was sunk. One hundred lives are supposed to have been lost.

—L. C. Shaul, conductor on a N. E. & M. V. railroad local freight, fell from the train at Farmer's Station and was instantly killed by the fall.

—Rev. Nightingale, colored, advised the negroes of Memphis to arm themselves for exterminating the whites. A row in the church followed and a number of persons were injured.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—At midnight, Friday, Messrs. H. R. Oldson, of Paris, and J. B. Cook, of Hustonville, awoke Deputy Clerk G. B. Wear and hustled him out of bed to issue a marriage license for the former to marry Miss Lena Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will R. Williams, of Hustonville. The couple were in town the evening before and it is supposed that while driving home in the gloaming, the attachment which had been growing for several years, increased to such a point that they could not longer live separate, and an immediate union was determined upon. The bride is a very bright and pretty young lady and met her fate in Paris during the sojourn of her parents there. She is a niece of ex Gov. Bishop, of Ohio. Mr. Oldson is a reformed printer, at present manager of the Paris Water Works. He is a handsome and clever young man of 24. We hope that the old saying marry in haste and repent at leisure will never be their experience, but that every day of their married life will be happier than the preceding.

FINE BLUE GRASS FARM FOR SALE.

The Executors of Thomas M. Lillard, deceased, will at his late residence, on Wednesday, Oct. 28, 1891, offer at public sale his fine Farm of 40 Acres, located on the Danville & Stanford turnpike, four miles from Danville and from Stanford. This farm must be seen to be appreciated. A few choice points are these: 1. The land is level and productive, as the crops now up it prove. 2. It is splendidly fenced and watered. 3. It has been farmed judiciously for 30 years by one of the best farmers in the State and now it is free from all weeds or impediments to the richest returns. 4. It is so thoroughly improved that no expense will be required for 10 years. 5. The house on it is a fine, large, two-story brick, splendidly built, with 10 rooms, numerous closets and porches, large halls, basement under whole of house and good out houses. 6. It is only a short trip to Danville, the educational center of Kentucky. 7. The neighborhood and social surroundings are nowhere excelled. 8. It is a good fine horse and stock farm as well as a fine place for stock and grass, and it has been largely by in area for many years. Ninety acres will be sown in wheat by the day of sale, the balance of the farm is in grass, and it is well fenced for corn. Terms of sale easy. At the same time and place will offer for sale a tract of 100 Acres of land, containing about 100 acres well timbered and within half a mile of Junction City. Also the Crops, Stock and Personalty, including ten shares of the National Bank Stock. MARK T. LILLARD, Executor. JOHN T. LILLARD, Executor. J. T. LILLARD.

PUBLIC SALE

OF A VALUABLE LINCOLN COUNTY FARM

At the mansott house on the premises

ON TUESDAY, SEP. 15, 1891,

At 1 o'clock A. M., I will, as executor of the last will of Thornton Porter, dec'd, and by authority thereof, sell at public auction to the highest bidder the farm on which decedent resided. This farm is on Griggs' Creek, in Lincoln county, fronting on the L. & N. R. R. at Gilbert's Creek Station, and contains 119 Acres and 11 Poles of Land.

The land is first-class and improvements, fencing, etc., are fairly good. The tract will be offered in three separate parcels, one of 19 acres, 10 poles, at the station, the second of 18 acres and the third, on which is the residence of 60 acres. After the three parcels have thus been separately offered the entire tract will be offered as a whole and the bid or bids making the largest price will be accepted. All interested parties have a privilege on an excellent county road leading, at a distance of about a mile, to the Stanford & Lancaster turnpike road.

The sale will be absolute and without conditions. Possession for sowing grain will be given at once to the purchaser, and full possession on January 1st, 1892.

TERMS OF SALE—One third cash in hand when sale is made, the remainder in two equal installments at 6 and 12 months from day of sale, bonds with good surety bearing 6 per cent. interest from day of sale required of purchaser. A lien will be retained on land for the purchase money.

THE county court yesterday granted the petition of certain citizens of Crab Orchard and fixed the third Saturday in October as the day upon which the question of a free graded school shall be voted on. The boundary is 1 1/2 miles every way from the centre of Crab Orchard.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL seems to have stirred up a hornet's nest. The local papers publish columns to show that Middleboro is not dead and the correspondents are sending out dispatch after dispatch to deny the assertion. Well, we simply wanted to know, you know, and we are being told with a vengeance.

FOOT CUT OFF.—A young man named Pleas Dye caught at a freight train that ran past him beyond Maywood with the intention of taking a ride. He was jerked into the business and was worked down instead and under the wheels. As luck would have it, he escaped with his life, but he will never see his right foot any more.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—A very interesting programme will be carried out at Mt. Xenia on Saturday, Sept. 19, beginning at 6:30 p. m., ending with a lively discussion between Messrs. Chappell, Davis and others. We trust that all those interested in educational matters will attend. Lincoln county teachers are now fully determined that the public schools shall be a success. W. F. McClary, one of the committee.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS.—The T. & C. and Louisville Southern will sell tickets at one fare for round-trip Sept. 20 and 30, and for trains arriving in Louisville on morning of Oct. 1, good to return on the 5th, on account of the Fall Celebration of the Satellites of Mercury. These roads will also sell tickets at half fare to Lexington on account of the Charity Exposition, Sept. 23 to 26, good to 28. General Wade Hampton, of South Carolina will preside over the affair. This will be the most spirited entertainment ever given; everybody should turn out, as proceeds will be given to charitable institutions of Lexington.

THE entertainment given by Misses Maggie, Mattie and Linda Owsley and Messrs. John Sam Owsley, Jr., and T. M. Owsley in honor of Misses Josie Underwood, of Elkton, and Ella McElwain, of Franklin, proved a very delightful affair in every way. The guests were received by the hosts and presented to the lovely young ladies, who were very elegantly attired, and immediately made at home in the beautifully decorated and illuminated mansion. The Misses Owsley entertained in a charming manner, and made each of the very large number of persons feel that it was good to be there. Under the inspiring music of Prof. Lott's orchestra, which played the entire evening, the tete-a-tetes were made more animated and enjoyable, though in obedience to the wishes of Mrs. Miller no dancing was indulged in. At a suitable hour refreshments prepared by Glicher Bros., of Danville, were served in a room that had been festooned and beautified until it was veritable home of the fairies. Our reporter failed to procure the names of those present, but a glance at the beauty and chivalry was sufficient to show that none of the society people had been forgotten. It was a late hour before the guests were able to take their departure from the brilliant scene and even then it was with regret and sadness to realize that "twas bright, 'twas heavenly but 'tis past."

LUTHER GIVENS writes that it was all a hoax about his having a baby—left at his stable.

ADVERTISEMENTS always pays. An Indiana man advertised for a boy and that night his wife had twins.

ANOTHER good week has been gathered in by Father Time and yet the Philadelphia water works contractor has not put in an appearance. How long, oh Lord, how long! will the city council continue to abuse the patience of their long suffering constituents.

I wish to inform the ladies that on account of my ill health I will not open a millinery establishment this fall, but will be prepared to work for them at my home on Main street. I will be glad to order anything in the millinery line. I hope my old customers will remember me and give me a liberal share of their patronage. Very respectfully, Mrs. Kate Dullendar.

With the exception of making numerous road orders the county court was not very busy yesterday. Dr. W. M. Hoors qualified as administrator of John Adams and Mrs. Bettie Pennybaker was granted liquor license at Kingsville. The will of W. S. Gooch was proved by W. R. Gooch and Wm. Murphy and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Gooch, qualified as executrix. Wm. Barton qualified as constable in the Highland precinct. An order was made to condemn a sufficient quantity of the land of David Eubanks for school grounds in District 10.

A LANSCHIPS PROBABLE.—John H. McCargue, sheriff of Pulaski county, was assassinated at his home near Somerset Saturday night. J. H. Gilland and Joe Gilland have been arrested charged with the crime. There is much excitement and from the Misses that, who came up from there yesterday, we learn that there was every prospect of a lynching last night. The Gillands have for years plied their trade of theft and the sheriff had determined to bring them to justice. McCargue was shot about 10 o'clock as he was going to his stable and died in a few minutes. The men were recognized.

—The two prizes of $10 each offered by Mr. C. M. Spoonamore to the best horse and mare colt by Ed Barlow, were awarded yesterday to Sam Dullendar and Frank Spoonamore respectively.

The judges were George Givens, J. Steele Carpenter and J. P. Embury, and there were 19 contestants.

An unusually large crowd attended court here yesterday, and business was a little on the look up. There were about 125 cattle on the market, but only about half of them were sold. Capt. T. W. Bottom reports the following sales: 800 pound steers, 2 cents; butcher cattle,

SUCCESSOR TO THE LINCOLN NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD.

(Now closing up) with the same assets and under the same management.

By provisions of its charter, depositors are fully protected as are depositors in National Banks, its shareholders being held individually liable to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares. It may act as executor, administrator, trustee, &c., as fully as an individual.

To those who entrusted their business to us
while managing the Lincoln National Bank of Stanford, we wish to tender our many thanks and trust they will continue to transact their business with us, offering as a guarantee for prompt attention to same, our twenty years' experience in banking and as liberal accommodations as are consistent with sound banking.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock.....$200,000
Surplus.....16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford, Ky. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors who invest in this institution are secured by a fund of $400,000.
Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank
are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times
by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1853, has been reorganized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1892, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 39 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, educational, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of T. J. Foster, of Stanford;
Forsyth Reid, Lincoln county;
J. W. Hayden, Stanford;

MAGIC.

When the sparse leaves left to the oak are
And frayed at their branches and night is near,
And the wind wails over marsh and mead
Where the after light lies dead and drear—
Then, ah! that again!
Come days that have been—
Dead to my year—for many a year!

When the wild drake calls to the early night,
When the plucky plover gives back dull light,
And above in the gray veil out of sight
The flocks pulse by on their inland flight—
Then, ah! for the dead
Sweet days that are fled—
And their dear delight—and their dear delight!

—G. K. Turner in Springfield Republican.

THE EGG STEALER.

It wanted less than hour to high tide
when Miss Marty Lear heard her brother's boat grate on the narrow beach below the garden, and set the knives and glasses straight while she listened for the rattle of the garden gate.

A stunted line of hazel ran along the foot of the garden and prevented all view of the landing place from the kitchen window. But above the lazels one could look across and catch a glimpse, at high tide, of the intervening river, or, toward low water mark, of the mudbanks shining in the sun.

It was Miss Lear's custom to look much on this landscape from this window; had, in fact, been her custom for close upon forty years. And this evening, when the latch clicked at length, and her brother in his market suit came slouching up the path that broke the parallels of garden stuff, her gaze rested
all the while upon the line of gray water.

Nor, when he entered the kitchen and hitched his hat upon the peg against the wall—where its brim accurately fitted a sort of dull halo in the whitewash—did he appear to want any welcome from her. He was a long jawed man of sixty-five, she a long jawed woman of sixtyone; and they understood each other,
having kept this small and desolate farm together for twenty years—since their father's death.

There was a cold pasty ready on the table, and the jug of cider that Job Lear regularly emptied at supper. These suggested no questions, and the pair sat down to eat in silence.

It was only while holding his plate for a second helping of the pasty that Job
spoke with a full mouth.

"Who d'ye reckon I run against today,
down in Troy?"

Miss Marty cut the slice without troubling to say that she had not an idea.

"Why, that fellow Amos Trudgeon," he went on.

"Yes."
"Pears to me you disremembers 'em—
son of old Jane Trudgeon that used to live 'cross the water; him that stole our eggs, long back, when father was livin'."

"I remember."
"I thought you must. Why, you gave evidence, to be sure. Be dashed! now I come to mind, if you wasn't the first to wake us up an say you heard a man
cryin' out down 'pon the mud."

"Iss, I was."
"An saved his life, though you did get
'em two months in jail by it. Up to arm-pits, he was, an not two minutes to live,
when we hauled 'em out an found he'd been stealin' our eggs. He inquired after you today."

"Did he?"
"Iss, 'How's Miss Marty,' says he.
'Again rapidly,' says I. The nerve that some folks have! Comes up to me cool as my lord and holds out his hand. I'd a mind to say 'Eggs' to 'em, it so annoyed me; but I hain't the heart. 'Tis an old tale after all, that feat of his."

"Two an forty year, come seven-tenth o' July next. Did he say any more?"
"Iss—wanted to know if you was married."

"Oh, my dear God!"
Job laid down knife and fork with the edges resting on his plate, and with a lump of pasty in one cheek looked at his sister. Before he could speak she broke out again:

"He was my lover."
"Mar—ty—"
"I swear to you, Job—here across this
table—he was my lover; an I ruined 'em.
He was the only man, 'cept you an father, that ever kissed me; an I betrayed 'em. As the Lord liveth, I stood in the box an swore away his name to save mine. An what's more, he made me."

"Mar—ty—"
"Don't hinder me, Job—it's truth I'm telling. His people were a low lot, an father'd hived him if he'd know. But we used to meet in the orchard, most every night. Amos'd row across in his boat, an back again. For the Lord's sake, brother, don't look so. I'm past sixty, an no harm done; an now evil an good's the same to me."

"Go on."

"Well, the last night he came over,
'twas low tide. I was waitin' for 'em in the orchard; an he would have me tell father and you, and I wouldn't. I reckon
we quarreled over it so long his boat got left high in the mud. Anyways, he left me in wrath, an I stood there by the gate in the dark longin' for 'em to come back. But the time went on, an I didn't hear his oars pullin' away, though I listened with all my ears."

"An then I heard a terrible sound, a low sort of breathin, but fierce, an something worse, a suck-suckin of the mud below, an ran down. There he was, above his knees in it, half way between firm ground and his boat. For all his fightin he heard me and whispers out o'
the dark:

"'Little girl, it's got me. Hush! don't shout.'"
"Can't you get out? I whispered back."

"'No, I'm afraid.'"
"I'll run an call father an Job."

"'Hush! Be you mazed? Do you want to let 'em know?'"

"'But it'll kill you, dear, won't it?'"
"Likely it will," said he. Then after a while of battlin with it he whispers
again, 'Little girl, I don't want to die.
Death is a cold end. But I reckon we can manage to save me an your name as well. Run up to the henhouse an bring me as many eggs as you can find—and don't ax questions. Be quick; I can keep up for awhile.'"

"I didn't know what he meant, but ran up for my life. I could tell pretty well how to find a dozen or more in the dark by gropin about, and in three minutes had gathered 'em in the lap o' my dress, and run down again. I could just spy him—a dark blot out on the mud."

"'How many?' he asked, his voice
hoarse as a rook's."

"'About a dozen.'"
"Toss 'em here. Don't come too near,
an shy careful, so's I can catch. Quick!"

"I stepped down pretty near to the brim o' the mud an tossed 'em out to him. Three fell short in my hurry, but the rest he got hold of, somehow."

"'That's right. They'll think egg stealin natural to a low family like our'n.
Now back to your room, an dress an cry out, sayin there's a man shoutin for help down 'pon the mud. When you wave your candle twice if the window
I'll shout like a Trojan.'"

"An I did it, Job, for the cruelty in a fearful woman passes knowledge. An you reason'd 'em, an he went to jail. For he said 'twas the only way. An his mother took it as quite reasonable that her husband's son should take to the bad
—'twas the way of all the Trudgeons."

"You needn't look at me like that.
I'm past sixty an I've done my share of repentin. He didn't ax if he was married, did he?"—Arthur Quiller Couch in London Speaker.

A Sacred Log.

There is a log of yellowish colored wood standing just outside of Chi Hua gate, Pekin. This log has remained in its present position since the fall of the old Ying dynasty. It is in good preservation and has commanded the respect of all classes and conditions of people. Insects in China usually make inroads in timber in a very short while, but they are said never to alight upon this sacred tree trunk, and it is true that they have not left a single trace of their work upon it, while the timbers in every direction are a perfect honeycomb of insect work.

The Chinese people believe that the log is the habitation of some god, and on that account gather and worship at its base at least once a year. Among the higher classes the day for this unique species of worship is the first of each succeeding month, unless that day
should happen to be a new moon day.
Oct. 1 of every year the emperor commands the board of ceremonies to appoint a committee to pay their respects to the deified log.—Chicago Times

Men's Relation to His Country.
Not recognizing the fundamental distinction between a society which, having fighting for its chief business, makes sustenance subordinate, and a society which, having sustenance for its chief business, makes fighting subordinate,
there are many who assume that a disciplinary policy appropriate to the first is appropriate to the last also. But the relations of the individual to the state are in two cases entirely different. Unlike the Greek, who, not owning himself as owned by his city, the Englishman is not in any appreciable degree owned by his nation, but in a very positive way owns himself. Though, if of fit age, he may on great emergency be taken possession of and made to help in defending his country; yet this contingency qualifies to but small extent the private possession of his body and the self directing of his actions.—Herbert Spencer in Popular Science Monthly.

Men Who Do Not Smoke.
There is a prevalent idea that men who abstain from tobacco indulge to excess in some other stimulant. There is some truth in this. Balzac, who es-chewed tobacco as a weed that injured
the body, attacked the intellect and stu-pefied the nations, drank great quantities of coffee, which produced the terrible nervous disease that shortened his life.

Goethe was a nonsmoker. So was Nietzcher. But the former is computed to have drunk some 50,000 bottles of wine during his lifetime, and the latter took a tremendous quantity of snuff.
Nevertheless it must be acknowledged that a very large number of brain workers indulge in no stimulants whatever,
or use them very sparingly.—New York Sun.

The Magnetic Button Fastener.
A clever adaptation of electricity is found in the magnetic button fastener.
The difficulty in the common machines
has been the absence of a plan sufficiently simple for feeding the buttons from the receiving hopper on the top of the machine down the tube leading to the stamping mechanism. This is now effected by the magnet, which, playing up and down in the hopper through a slot in the bottom, attracts several of the loose buttons at each upward movement.
On the downward stroke the buttons
which cling to the magnet are rubbed off into a little trough.—New York Telegram.

Quarrying Salt in Kansas.
Nearly 500 feet below the rolling prairies on which Lyons, Kan., stands we are quarrying rock salt. The supply is simply inexhaustible, as drills have penetrated it to the depth of 300 to 400 feet.
The salt is almost pure, the foreign elements not being more than 8 percent, of any given bulk or quantity. We mine
the salt outright, while at Hutchinson
they get it out by pumping fresh water
on to the bed rock, pump out the salt water and then evaporate it. Our method is cheaper and more satisfactory.—Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Easily Answered.
A professor in a German medical college had one exasperating student.
"You see, Herr Dumm," said the professor to this young man one day, "the subject of this diagram limps because one of his legs is a trifle shorter than the other. Now, what would you do in such a case?"

"I should limp, too, I think, Herr Professor," replied the student with an expression of perfect innocence on his stupid face.—Exchange.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin, deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive you have a bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a dyspeptic look and if your kidneys be affected you have a pinched look. Secure your health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alternative and tonic, acts directly upon these vital organs. Cures piles, blood diseases, and gives a good complexion. So let A. R. Penny's drug
